

HE FELL SIXTY FEET.

Hamilton Was on a Rotten Electric Light Pole When It Broke.

Struck on Cobblestones and Yet He Had No Bones Broken.

Woman Had a Narrow Escape and Came Near Fainting.

Robert Hamilton, twenty-five years old, a lineman employed by the Manhattan Electric Light Company, Limited, had an extremely narrow escape from losing his life or being horribly mangled this morning, by the breaking off and crashing to the street of an electric light pole sixty-six feet in height, near the top of which he was at work, at Sixty-seventh street and First avenue.

Hamilton, strangely enough, had no bones broken. His left leg was hurt severely. He was taken to his home at 121 West Sixteenth street.

The Manhattan Company is removing all its poles on First avenue down to Forty-second street, the wires now being run through underground conduits.

It was Hamilton's work to remove the wires from the wooden cross-bars near the tops of the poles, and then fasten a long stout rope to the top. A team of horses was then hitched to the other end of the rope and after exerting have out through the base of the pole and down the ground as possible, the horses are started up and the pole comes crashing down.

Hamilton had removed the wires from the pole at Sixty-seventh street, and was standing upon the top cross-bar, fixing the hauling-down rope, when, without the least warning, the pole, which was rotten from near its base up, snapped off short some fifteen feet from the top, and Hamilton and the broken end of the pole crashed down on the cobblestone pavement.

A large crowd of men, women and children were watching the removal of the pole. As Hamilton was seen flying down through the air, mingled with the rope and pole, there was a general cry of horror.

It was thought impossible that he could have escaped death, but when the dust settled down, it was found that, though stunned, he was not seriously injured.

The workmen who are taking down the poles have hard work keeping passers-by and spectators from being hurt. When the pole crashed down, it was found that it had struck a woman, who was standing near the base of the pole, and she was seriously injured.

GRAZED BY DENTIST'S GAS.

Sachse Flew Into a Paroxysm of Rage While at Breakfast.

Had Eight Teeth Pulled Yesterday and Slept Little Last Night.

August Sachse, forty-five years old, a porter at the Petroleum Exchange, 62 Broadway, living on the third floor of the tenement-house 33 Vesey street, suddenly became insane in his apartments last morning.

He grew very violent and destructive and the quick arrival of two policemen from the church street station alone prevented him from doing himself and his family injury.

Sachse yesterday had eight upper teeth extracted by a dentist in the Cooper Institute Building. Gas was administered in large quantities to Sachse, and his effects were so slight that after three molar had been drawn he was aroused, and the dentist was forced to administer an additional quantity of the anaesthetic. The balance of Sachse's eight teeth were then removed, and he returned to his home.

He appeared to be suffering greatly, and slept very little during last night. While at breakfast this morning he suddenly burst into a paroxysm of rage and began to destroy the furniture. His wife was obliged to pin him to the floor, and she sent her daughter out for the police.

They removed Sachse to the Chambers Street Hospital, where his case was diagnosed as one of dementia.

RAN OVER DYNAMITE.

It Explodes, Wrecking a Wagon and Tearing Up the Street.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 10.—At 9:49 o'clock this morning a team passing over Dyer street ran over a dynamite cartridge, which exploded with terrific force.

Thousands soon gathered in the vicinity, and many of the spectators attempted to cross the street, but were prevented by the police. The explosion was so violent that the street was torn up and the wagon was wrecked.

With some difficulty, the police finally drove back the crowd, and an investigation proved that no serious damage had been done.

The wagon was partially wrecked, and a hole three feet square made in the street.

King Humbert and the Duke of Aosta received numerous congratulations at the palace. Extensive preparations are being made for the visit of the King and Queen of Italy to Queen Victoria.

Later in the day King Humbert, accompanied by Queen Margaret, the Crown Prince of Italy and the Duke of Aosta, drove in state to the Villa Farnesina, in order to visit the queen of England.

The royal cortege proceeded from the Villa Farnesina to the Villa Palatine, a walking party. Their progress was continually and enthusiastically cheered by the dense throngs of people who gathered along the route.

Among the people who witnessed the state procession were crowds of foreign visitors, including many Americans, and a large number of English people.
